Message from the President of the 31st International Congress of Psychology

---

Kazuo Shigemasu
President, Organizing Committee of 31st
International Congress of Psychology

The Organizing Committee of the XXXI International Congress of Psychology (ICP2016) welcomes all participants from across the globe to Yokohama. We are honored to have you attend events in the cutting-edge scientific program and enjoy social and cultural activities.

ICP2016 is proud to offer 28 keynote addresses, about 300 invited addresses and invited symposia. These programs reflect the work both of young promising scholars and practitioners as well as established and eminent academics and researchers. In addition, more than 7,000 oral and poster presentations are scheduled that address virtually every area of contemporary psychology. This vast program not only provides the opportunity to learn about the most recent developments in our field, but should enable personal connections that can facilitate plans for future research and practice.

The congress theme of ICP2016 is "Diversity in Harmony." Psychology is an ever-evolving field of science. While many disciplines such as physics, chemistry, and biology study the workings of the natural universe, it is primarily psychology that studies the human mind. Thus, psychology unsurprisingly comprises diverse areas with researchers who employ different methodologies and terminology. The ICP, as the largest conference in psychology, provides psychologists not only an unparalleled venue to share their most recent findings in their own specializations but also a valuable opportunity to be exposed to current stimulating developments in other related areas. The theme of our Congress expresses our hope that psychology will develop further in diverse directions while contributing harmonious solutions to the problems facing contemporary society.

Yokohama is particularly suited to the congress theme of ICP2016. As the first port that Japan opened to the world after centuries of self-imposed isolation, it introduced many cultures and technologies from abroad, while maintaining the tradition evident in the many surrounding historic sites.

If you find time to travel around Japan before or after the Congress, you will be able to appreciate the beautiful natural scenery of the Japanese countryside and experience the exciting cultural changes in the big cities, as well as experience Japanese hospitality everywhere.

Message from the President of the Japanese Psychological Association

Toshikazu Hasegawa

President of Japanese Psychological Association

Representing the Japanese Psychological Association, it is my pleasure to welcome all of you to the 31st International Congress of Psychology, 2016 Yokohama. The JPA is the longest-standing academic association in its field in Japan. I speak for all its members when I say we are looking forward to the opportunity to interact in greater depth with participants from around the world through academic presentations and social events, conveying the cutting edge of psychology in Japan as well as its diverse culture.

The ICP has not been held in Japan since 1972, a gap of some 44 years. Over this near half-century, the International Congress of Psychology has developed dramatically. While the previous Tokyo conference hosted 2,562 participants from 52 countries, this time we look forward to an attendance of about 8,000 psychologists from 90 countries or more. This vast conference will include about five thousand presentations, and we intend to give of our best to satisfy every participant.

Since just after it was decided at the 2010 Melbourne ICAP that ICP2016 would be hosted by Japan, the JPA has been preparing for the conference under its Executive Committee, led by Professor Kazuo Shigemasu as president. In 2011, Japan was battered by the Great East Japan Earthquake and the Fukushima nuclear accident, causing great distress to many around the world. However, Yokohama was fortunate enough to be distant from the afflicted areas, and the conference preparations were barely affected. Since then, we have been advertising the conference through multiple PR activities and promotions, and are delighted to welcome so many participants in the event.

As the program tells you, the guest presentations at the conference include the keynote speech, invited addresses, invited symposia, and public lectures, while regular presentations include oral and poster presentations, contributed symposia, thematic sessions, and rapid communication. The conference coincides with Japan's hottest season, and outside it is hot and humid, but you will find the air-conditioned venues comfortable. I hope to encounter vigorous discussion of the results gained through research. The social events include opportunities to experience both traditional and modern Japan. Please do not hesitate to join in. Throughout the conference, if you have any concerns or if anything is unclear, please feel free to consult a staff member.

I wish you a fruitful and satisfying ICP.

Message from the President of the International Union of Psychological Science (IUPsyS)

Saths Cooper

President, International Union of Psychological Science

An International Congress of Psychology is the sought-after event in international psychology that attracts scholars, practitioners in an array of settings, and students from every part of the globe, showcasing the state of the discipline in all its depth and breadth. Ever since the very first ICP was held in Paris, France from 6 to 12 August 1889 – to celebrate the centennial of the French Revolution – psychology as a science and profession has grown in remarkable ways that the founding visionaries of the International Union of Psychological Science would be truly proud of.

This 31st ICP boasts the active participation of psychologists and related scientists and practitioners who are seized with expanding our understanding of the human condition in all its diversity and the quest for the quintessential harmony that characterises us as a species. Different in our complexities, yet remarkably similar across culture and environment.

Underpinning both established and new psychological knowledge in 63 discrete domains from aggression and prosocial behaviour – through the evergreen clinical, cognition, developmental, educational, health, industrial/organisational, and social – to traffic psychology, there is a welter of choice to suit every psychology palate and behavioural taste. Our gracious hosts have agonised on every morsel of extant information in organising this quadrennial milestone in international psychology to ensure that none of us is unsatisfied. The scientific feast that awaits psychologists from all over the world has been carefully crafted to meet our every expectation.

Enjoy!

Message from Mayor of Yokohama City

---

Fumiko Hayashi
Mayor of Yokohama City

We are honored to be hosting the 31st International Congress of Psychology (ICP2016). On behalf of the 3.71 million citizens of Yokohama City, I am pleased to welcome attendees who are active in the field of psychology around the globe.

In today's world, it is becoming increasingly important to address issues pertaining to the mind. Contemporary society is often said to be one characterized by high levels of stress, and as a result many people are challenged with psychological troubles and illnesses. Therefore, a psychology-based approach is vital as we seek out optimal solutions to the problems of today's society. ICP2016 participants have achieved great results through their dedicated, daily efforts toward overcoming societal issues.

The ICP is the largest conference in the field of psychology, and it brings together numerous psychologists from around the world who are active at the forefronts of their professions. Based on this year's theme "Diversity in Harmony," we hope that participants will be able to achieve a wide range of advancements and progress in their field.

Furthermore, we are deeply grateful for the cooperation of ICP2016 participants in activities that provide educational opportunities to Yokohama City students through this event in order to help foster our next generation of leaders. These endeavors provide a unique chance for students to learn through psychology experiments about how research in the field is related to our daily lives, and we expect that many of these young participants will grow up to be researchers in the field.

The ICP2016 venue is located in the Yokohama harbor-front district, an area characterized by the beautiful scenery of its skyscrapers where you can relish the cool sea breeze while shopping or fully indulge in cuisine from around the world. Sankeien Garden, where Japanese-style buildings blend harmoniously with the natural setting throughout the four seasons, as well as the ample and diverse selection of other tourist attractions concentrated in the city provide enjoyment for visitors after event sessions. Yokohama is a safe and comfortable port city that strikes a balance between Japanese tradition and internationalism and whose citizens treat all visitors with gracious hospitality. I hope you will enjoy your time here to the fullest.

In closing, I would like to express my wishes for the success of the Congress and for the prosperous development and growth of its participants.

Message from the Governor of Kanagawa Prefecture

Yuji Kuroiwa

Governor of Kanagawa Prefecture

Dear all distinguished guests and delegates to the ICP2016,

First of all, I would like to express my cordial welcome to the 31st International Congress of Psychology to be held in Yokohama City, Kanagawa Prefecture, Japan.

I understand that the International Congress of Psychology aims to contribute to solution of various issues that modern society faces, by promoting progress and development of psychological research. The front-line researchers gather from all over the world to give lectures and research presentations, and the achievements of the leading-edge psychology in Japan are presented to the world. I have high expectations that the congress will lead to international exchange between psychologists.

In Kanagawa, aging of society is rapidly advancing compared with other prefectures. We are facing the urgent issue of the super-aged society.

To overcome the challenges of this societal change, we are striving to create society where prefectural citizens can enjoy the longest healthy life expectancy in Japan, and live a happy life in good mental and physical conditions.

To achieve this goal, mental health is important just as physical health is. We are conducting programs to improve citizens' mental health, including assistance to a Kanagawa company engaged in the research of mental condition analysis by detecting emotions from the voice.

I wish that the 31st International Congress of Psychology will make a great achievement, contributing to further development of psychology and solution of various problems of the society.

Sincerely yours.

自分の中の隠された心 非意識的態度の社会心理学

潮村公弘著

四六判・168頁・1728円

私たちは、自身の思考や判断、行動などを自分で考えたうえで意識的・主体的に行っていると考えがちです。しかしながら、古くからフロイトなどにより、私たちが意識的に認識していること以外に、「無意識」という意識できていない心のはたらきがあることが指摘されてきました。本書では、そのような概念を「非意識」としてとらえ直し、その測定方法や研究による成果について解説します。長年日本とアメリカで非意識・無意識の研究に携わってきた著者が、進展する研究の熱気を伝えます。

主要目次 非意識の世界 IAT (潜在的連合テスト) IATを用いたステレオタイプ関連研究 非意識に関わる研究の広がり 非意識的態度で新たに予測できること 非意識的態度研究の今後
